How to lead a sport club to a successful future

Sport is one major pillar of health in our society. Sport clubs take a leading role in offering grassroots sports activities to European citizens and therefore contribute to public health.

Thus, the sportGO consortium consisting of universities and sport governing bodies from 6 countries supports the management of semi-professional sport clubs by developing a practical training programme to enhance the governance skills of semi-professional sport club officials, employees and managers.

The training programme of 30 hours is tailored to the needs of semi-professional sport clubs in the participating countries and offers following training modules:

- HR Management
- Project management
- Marketing
- Event Management for sport clubs
- Finance
- Legal Framework
